

Entry Announcement: "2023-24 Asian Le Mans Series"

D'station Racing announces its entry to compete in the 2023-24 Asian Le Mans Series. The five-race series will kick off in December and run through February.

The United Arab Emirates has been home to the series for the past three seasons, hosting double-header races in Dubai and Abu Dhabi during the pandemic. The 2024 season will bring back the Asian Le Mans Series to Malaysia for the first time since the 2020 season. Double-header races are scheduled for Sepang International Circuit and Yas Marina Circuit as well as a single race at Dubai Autodrome this season.

D'station Racing will enter the series for its fifth consecutive season with the Aston Martin Vantage AMR GT3. The team debuted in the Asian Le Mans Series in the 2019-20 season, winning the opening round in Shanghai.

Furthermore, the team has decided to enter the final round of the GT World Challenge Asia in Sepang in September.

Team details are below. As always, thank you for your ongoing support.

Tomonobu Fujii, Team Managing Director

"I am honored to announce our entry to the Asian Le Mans Series for the 2023-24 season. The addition of the race in Sepang will be a fantastic opportunity for many teams in Asia and I expect the competitive European teams will continue their entries as they have done the last three seasons, so I am excited to start the season. With the ACO and SRO collaborating for the upcoming season, we have decided to join the final round of the GT World Challenge Asia at the end of September in Sepang and look forward to starting the Asian Le Mans Series in December. Thanks to the logistical planning by the ACO and SRO, we are excited for more races in their championships with Aston Martin Vantage AMR GT3."
